

BIO FOR DAVE TOBIN:

Dave attended Washington State University on an athletic scholarship where he earned his teaching certificate and bachelors degree in 1978. Dave played center for the Cougar football team in the mid 70's.

Since leaving WSU, Dave has had the good fortune to teach and coach in the state of Washington. Dave has served as an assistant football, track and basketball coach and as a head football and track coach. He earned his masters degree and principal's credential from Seattle Pacific University and has, since the mid 90's served as an athletic director, assistant principal and principal.

Dave is currently the Co-Principal at Ilwaco High School and loves living in the coastal community of Long Beach in Southwest Washington.

Dave believes that relationships with teachers, coaches and administrators serve as an example of the impact that they can have on the lives of their students and athletes. He considers it his good fortune to be able to share some of Coach Brown's insight through Proactive Coaching and thus, make a difference by contributing to the next generation of teachers, coaches and athletes who will have the benefit of his legacy.
